The Oregonian recently published an op-ed from VG Provider Jacqui Villalobos, NP, who shared her opinion on Coordinated Care Organizations' progress in reducing ER visits by Medicaid patients. Jacqui explains how VG's team-based approach improves outcomes and helps patients feel as if the team knows them as a person and not a chart.
The Oregon Health Authority also released a new report showing that CCOs are helping to reduce ER visits and lower costs. The report highlights the results of the team-based approach to care that we use here at Virginia Garcia.
